

THE LAW OF TIME AND LIVE IN A NEW EARTH: DECONSTRUCTING THE RULE OF LAW

Keywords: Rule of Law; Law of Time; Transdisciplinarity; Planetary Citizenship

The rule of law is in decline. Even though it is obvious that the end state model, it is still difficult for humans to perceive and accept it. However, a new way of life based on simple principles like peace, culture, respect for others, through the law of time, already exists in the present day and in many places on this planet. This work is the result of research and experience with people and communities who use the Law of Time in your day by day. The research objective is to demonstrate a new way of living is possible, necessary and essential to continue the human race inhabiting the planet earth. For this purpose, we used the method of systemic approach and the method of field research procedure.

Long Abstract

It is known that since the mid-eighteenth century one lives in virtually all countries of the globe a state of law, which in its evolution passed by a Liberal State, Social State (Welfare State) and Democratic State. The evolution of the state occurs by the conditions and search for greater freedom and equality among citizens, who, at different times, fought for more effective ways and sought ways of living that would facilitate the development of humanity.

The negative consequences brought about by the Liberal State were overcome by Social Status in countries that are in the north of the globe. Overcoming the difficulties and inequalities of a liberal state does arise, these days, a strong economic, environmental, social, personal and paradigmatic crisis. After all, who is humanity and what it seeks.

The State of Social Rights has brought several advantages which at first promised solutions to all social problems experienced on the planet. Labor laws, improved living conditions, development of new technologies, guarantees of rights deemed fundamental by the State, among others. However, at the beginning of this process no one noticed that this "good life upside down" caused serious social, cultural, environmental problems, because it was based on overconsumption and the distancing of human nature and the constant destruction of what is basic to our survival: land and natural resources.

Today, we are in a growing crisis as the excessive consumption no longer sustains the barbarism of a few people. Inequality as domination is already losing its strength because the problem faced by the capitalist system exceeds the financial test pits. The environmental damage is increasing and hence the quality of life is diminishing, regardless of their social class. In addition, some humans, aiming to continue that domination of evil create technologies that end with basic to the survival of the human inputs . Now what you need to survive? Water, land, seed and fresh air Because the seeds are being manipulated to make them sterile so that the few who have the technology to continue to profit . What happens, however, is that these same people may be victims of their own inventions, because nature has its own moral law and is already showing what he is capable. Intense cold, intense heat , rainstorms , intense drought ... every region of the planet is already suffering from a serious and worrying consequence climate . We reached the limit of our development, but few understand it.

The figure of the state lost its financial and political condition. The constant wars for sovereignty of the territory For what? For who? A polluted and lifeless territory is worthless. In the future, you cannot survive in places attacked by chemical weapons, because life cannot be sustained in places with a high level of pollution. The science is in crisis because it can no longer solve contemporary problems and ends up serving only as a means for palliative diseases that helped create (excessive toxic and carcinogenic waste , result in a productive and consumerist society , which helped the survival of a state of social rights ) . The law is in crisis, because it is based on a positivist stiffness and thus fails to grasp the evolution of society and the complexity of their problems. The society is in crisis because it distanced itself from fundamental values for a dignified and happy existence. The company was sold to the buying and spending would bring happiness and today that company realizes that this is not true, but at the same time , cannot get out of this alienation .

We need to overcome the figure of the state? If we reach the conclusion that yes, one alternative is to return to live in community, through a new law that seeks to achieve what physicists call different realities or dimensions. This law is known as the Law of Time and is already being lived by small community around the world.

Important to mention that to understand the concept of law of time it is necessary to understand that our brain has limitations and one is to understand the world with just a reality. Physical been researching the possibility of there being more of a reality and still investigating that we live in a universe with features that are not always our brain can perceive. One such feature is the existence of multiple dimensions and hence multiple realities, that our mind cannot visualize.

The law of time assumes that the human being is the only who lives a different time of nature or natural long time. This makes the energy frequency experienced by man is dissonant from the rest of all living beings on the planet, causing this to be a series of human problems in your daily life, such as illness, discomfort, emptiness, anger, injustice, lust for power , greed, among other characteristics that cause major problems and conflicts of societies and states. People who resume a natural life, which began to live the natural time, consequently pass a new energy vibrating frequency, attract harmony, love, peace, food abundance and a state of happiness.

In a recent survey ( RUSCHEL 2010 , p . 59 ), can see that the habitants of Latin America , before the European invasion , lived the law of time . The Indians who had little contact with white civilization still live the law of time . However, people who were placed in a context of rule of law came to recognize and live the law of time and therefore live better and happier . Several communities already exist around the world and can be found: www.13lunas.net.

Edgar Morin believes that we still live in the era of global iron and known by the human brain is very limited near the planetary reality. He mentions that "the awareness of our roots and our terrestrial planetary destiny is to perform a necessary civilizing humanity and the Earth condition." (MORIN, 2003, P. 99).

The pursuit of human evolution must be conceived as the development of our mental, spiritual, ethical, cultural and social potential. Here we find the notion of development, but much richer than that, and mutilated embryo, which was promoted and widespread since the 1950s and should be totally and radically rethought. True development is human development. It thus removing the notion of developing their economic jeans (MORIN, 2003, P. 100).

The Law of Time, the design of this study, would be the instrument for civilizing the civilization with the intercommunication between societies, and even more: its organic association on a planetary scale. (MORIN, 2003, P. 115). As already mentioned, this form of life exists in practice but needs to be taken seriously, widespread, researched, and lived for all beings.

This way we would build a new citizenship, planetary citizenship and life model based on natural time.
